The Air Force offers
the FCC Expanded
Child Care Program.

Under this program umbrella, Dover offers three FCC child care options for parents.

- 1 Extended Duty Program (EDC)
- 2 Deployment/Remote Assignment Care
- 3 Subsidized Family Child Care

Subsidized Family Child Care

The Air Force is now subsidizing Family Child Care providers based on the child care fee categories at the Child Development Center.

Parents will complete a required form to determine their fee category. Parents will pay the amount listed for that category and Air Force will subsidize the provider the remaining amount. This is a voluntary program for the providers.

Please contact any child care provider or the FCC office for more information.

Deployment/Remote Assignment Care Program

Parents are eligible for 16 hours of free child care before the military member deploys; 16 hours of free child care each month the military member is deployed and 16 hours of free child care up to 60 days after the military member returns.

Instead of written verification parents need to supply a copy of their orders for this program.

Extended Duty Program (EDC)

Parents may request the use of this program when their child care needs temporarily extend beyond their normal child care arrangements due to military mission related requirements.

Dover has three EDC providers contracted to offer this care. It's open to all active duty military, DOD civilians, reservists and the Air National Guard on active duty or for annual training and UTA weekends.

Parents interested in using this program must obtain written verification from their supervisor stating they are required to work extended hours and there is no other child care available.
